Silence Hour

One mother of a large household has a system of recreation which is really a novelty. The day and its duties are carefully apportioned, and the schedule is followed as closely as possible. By doing this the mother is able to take one afternoon a day for complete rest. In her case it is from 2 to 3 o'clock. She places a large placard at this time on the stairs, proclaiming "Silence." By the mother's persistence in taking this quiet hour others have grown to respect it until it has become a part of the home. In her home the mother really rests or else reads. No one goes near her unless it is absolutely necessary. The children close doors quietly when they see the placard and play where their voices will not reach the mother's room. At the end of the sixty minutes the mother reappears and takes up her usual duties. Several hours of absolute freedom a week can do a great deal to make over and refresh a weary body and still more weary nerves. An hour for rest in almost every household can be found if things are done systematically.

A colonel wanted a manservant, so he inserted an advertisement in the local weekly and received a great many applications, but none of them suited his requirements. But at last an Irishman was shown into his presence.

What I want, said the colonel, is a useful man—one who can cook, drive a motor, look after a pair of horses, clean boots and windows, feed the poultry, milk the cow, and do a little painting and paperhanging.

Excuse me, sir, cried Murphy, what kind of soil have you here?

Soil! snapped the colonel, what's that got to do with it?

Well, replied Murphy, I thought that if the soil was clay, I might make bricks in my spare time.

Bacon—What's become of that young man typewriter you had?

Egbert—Oh, he's gone away, for a while.

Not discharged!

No, I have sent him to the house of correction for a time.

THIN-BLOODED MEN AND WOMEN

Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Thin-blooded people do not remain so from choice, but from indifference; in some cases from despair. People who are pale, languid and palpitating of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to be easily tired are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood, and new blood means health and strength. The red cheeks, good appetite, increasing weight and strength that follow the use of these Pills prove their great value to thin-blooded people. Here is an example. Mrs. R. Steele, Afton Road, P.E.I., says: "Following child-birth I took a pain in my head which grew so bad I had to call in a doctor. He told me that my blood had turned to water and that I was in a serious condition. He treated me four months, but still the pain remained, and my condition was growing pitiable. I lost my appetite and was so weak and run down that I could no more than walk across a room. I was as pale as a corpse, and the doctor told my friends he had but little hopes of my getting better. A cousin who came to see me urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I sent and got a supply. In about a month after beginning their use I had much relief, and by the time I had taken six more boxes I was fully cured and felt as well as ever I did in my life. I have never had a twinge of the pain since, and feel that I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they cured me after the doctor had failed."

Joints Quit Aching—Nerviline Drives Soreness Away

NO MORE STIFFNESS, PAIN OR MISERY IN YOUR BACK OR SIDE OR LIMBS

Wonderful "Nerviline" is the Remedy

A marvelous pain reliever. Not an ordinary liniment—just about five times more powerful, more penetrating, more pain-subduing than any thick, oily or ammonia liniment. Nerviline eats up the pain and stiffness in chronic rheumatic joints, gives quick relief to those throbbing pains, and never burns or even stains the skin.

"Rheumatism kept my joints swollen and sore for ten years. My right knee joint was often too painful to allow me to walk. In this crippled, tortured condition I found Nerviline a blessing. Its warm, soothing action brought relief I had given up hoping for. I rubbed on quantities of Nerviline and improved steadily. I also took Ferrozone at meal time in order to purify and enrich my blood. I am today well, and can recommend my treatment most conscientiously.

(Signed) C. PARKS,

Prince Albert

Not an ache or pain in the muscles or joints that Nerviline won't cure. It's wonderful for lumbago and sciatica; for neuralgia, stiff neck, earache and toothache. Nerviline is simply a wonder. Best family liniment known and largely used for the past forty years. Sold by dealers everywhere, large family size bottle 50c., small size 25c. Refuse any substitute, take only "Nerviline."

The Fashionable "Face"

Browne—Say, old man, I haven't seen or heard anything of my wife in two or three weeks. You haven't seen her lately, have you?

Browne—No, by Jove. Never did think of that.

of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. MUNICIPALITY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW

WEEDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the farmers of Mountain View Municipality that the Weed Act will be STRICTLY enforced during 1914. It has been noticed that weeds have been abnormally spreading year by year, and in order to check their growth or exterminate them, drastic measures must be taken in the public interest to check or eradicate them. Those who have weeds upon their land should plan before seeding the best way of freeing their land from them. Either summer-fallow or sow for green feed with the intention of cutting before the weed seed can ripen. If it is found that weeds are in your crop grown for grain you may expect to be compelled to hand pull them. It would be considered a favor if every farmer would send an unsigned postal card to the Secretary stating thereon the quarter sections in his neighborhood where he knows weeds are prevalent and also state the kind of weeds.

BY ORDER OF THE COUNCIL.

Didsbury Band Concert

(By CRITIC)

The concert given on 19th inst under the auspices of the local Band and Orchestra proved a treat to those who were fortunate enough to hear it. Every praise must be given the conductor and members for the progress made of late; more especially when we consider the constant changes taking place through removal of members to other places, just perhaps, as they have attained some measure of proficiency, causing loss of time in training some one else in their steads. The remarks of Mr. Reed, principal of the high school, bearing on musical culture in general, and more especially its influences on the young were to the point and much appreciated. Could those remarks be put to practical use by parents in endeavoring to give some

Their second piece, "Angel Serenaed" was splendidly rendered, there being measure of musical training to the boys and girls now growing up amongst us great and good results would surely follow.

"The Grand March" by band as an opening piece was well calculated to show capabilities of the players and though somewhat shaky at some points gave evidence of careful work.

They were more happy in the second selection, "Irish Melodies", the whole going with a swing much appreciated by the audience. The third item by band, "The Conqueror" was rendered still better, some of the stage fright having been got rid of by this time, the playing being more uniform and smooth.

The first number given by the orchestra "The March of the Brownies" was very indifferently rendered, a breakdown being saved by the first violins who were well up to their work.

HAVE you read the debenture bylaw published in this issue which calls for a debenture for $8,000 to complete the payment for the electric light plant. It will be remembered that the original bylaw called for $20,000, but this proved insufficient to cover the cost of the erection and installation of the plant by about $5,000 and unforeseen expenditures to another $3,000. This extra amount ($8,000) has been carried by the Banks because the time was not opportune to put a debenture on the market without a loss. As the market is now in a much better condition it is thought advisable by the Town Council to put the debenture before the rate-payers for approval. It will be a saving to the town if the debenture is passed because it will not only make a saving in interest charges but a part of the principal will also be paid each year which we are unable to do now under present conditions.

some hard work in this piece for so young a band.

Their third piece "Heather Rose" was also rendered very creditably. The orchestra needs more strings and wood wind and less brass to make more perfect balance and give better tonal effect.

Miss Sexsmith in her Piano Solo was very effective, as was also conductor Gathercole in the Cornet Solo, showing great executive ability and taste in rendition.

The Male Quartette and Chorus had three numbers to their Credit which were well received and an encore demanded.

In the Violin Duet by Messrs. Thompson and Ferrel we had another treat, though the constant repetition of two and three phases by each violin in turn became somewhat monotonous. Also the beating of time with the foot and swaying of the body by the violinists took away much of their effectiveness as players. An encore was demanded which was much spoiled by the strings calling a clarinet to aid them. On the whole a most enjoyable time was spent and we trust it will not be long till we shall again have an equally good programme given us.

Meeting of Local Temperance Forces

A meeting of the Didsbury branch of the Temperance and Moral Reform League was held on Monday night in the Presbyterian church. There was not a very large attendance of the faithful but those who were at the meeting were enthusiastic and eager for the campaign of provincial prohibition, which it is thought will take place sometime in 1915.

The meeting opened with Mr. Fred. Moyle in the chair.

A letter was read from Mr. Manasseh Weber resigning the Presidency of the local branch of the league.

The resignation was accepted, and the chairman then called for nominations for a new President.

It was then moved by Messrs. P. R. Reed and Fred Moyle that Mr. H. W. Chambers be President of the local branch. This motion was carried unanimously and Mr. Chambers was declared elected.

The new President was then called to the chair, and in a few well chosen words asked the hearty support of the temperance supporters and as there was to be an election of other officers at this meeting he also asked for the election of an efficient staff to assist him, as there was heavy work to be done in view of the coming campaign.

It was then moved that Mr. Fred.

Moyle continue to act as Vice-President, but he stated that as he already held an office on the Provincial board and that he expected to be away considerably during the coming summer he did not think that he should hold this position, but that they could depend upon him to do all in his power to assist the organization. He moved with Mr. D. S. Shantz seconding, that Dr. J. M. Reid be Vice-President.

The enquiry was made as to whether the Doctor would accept as he was unable to be present to state whether he would or not. It was announced that he was willing to accept office if he was wanted. The election of Dr. Reid was unanimous; Mr. Moyle will act as assistant Vice-President.

The question of appointing a Secretary-Treasurer was then taken up. Mr. W. Miller, the acting Secretary, was asked to retain the office but stated in view of the heavy work ahead and his time being pretty well taken up with other work he would be unable to undertake the Secretarial duties.

The President then made a plea for the appointment of an efficient Secretary as there would be a lot of work in connection with the campaign.

Messrs. P. R. Reed, N. Clark, Rev. D. S. Marshall, H. S. Patterson, G. O. Johnson and B. A. St. Clair were all asked to take the position but declined. After some discussion Mr. Johnson was finally prevailed upon to accept the office as Secretary for the present.

Mr. W. Miller was elected Treasurer.

The following gentlemen were appointed on the executive committee: P. R. Reed, H. B. Atkins, N. Clark, P. Johnston, Dr. A. J. Weart and D. Dippel.

A great deal of argument took place as to what boundaries constituted the Didsbury district for organization purposes. The matter was left in abeyance until further information is received from headquarters.

Mr. H. S. Patterson addressed the meeting on the duties required of magistrates, especially along lines regarding the liquor business.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Reason Fewer People Take "Salts"

We find the use of salts and other harsh medicines is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and, by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less liable to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant, beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely relieve all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us, H. W. Chambers, Didsbury.

Fred closed the house with his usual care. Then he went up to bed.

My bedroom was over the library, and Mrs. Butler and Margery Fleming had connecting rooms across the hall. Fred and Edith slept in the nursery wing so they would be near the children. In the square upper hall there was a big reading table, a lamp and some comfortable chairs.

I was awakened by the pungent acrid smell of smoke. My cigarettes had dropped from my hand still lit and as is the way with cigarettes, determined to burn to the end. In so doing it had fired my bed, the rug under the bed and pretty nearly the man on the bed. It took some sharp work to get it all out without rousing the house. Then I stood amid the wreckage and looked ruefully at Edith's pretty room.

Three pitchers of water on the bed had made it an impossible couch. I put on a dressing gown and with a blanket over my arm, I went out to hunt some sort of place to sleep. I decided on the davenport in the hall just outside, and as quietly as I could I put a screen around it and settled down for the night.

I was awakened by the touch of a hand on my face. I started, I think, and the hand was jerked away. I am not sure; I was still drowsy. The hall was dark and quiet. When I found no one I concluded it had been only a vivid dream. Then I noticed a heavy, sweetish odor in the air. The smell was almost overwhelming.

Did you find anything, Fred? Edith asked. Fred did not reply, so she repeated the question with some emphasis.

El—what? Fred inquired, peering around the corner of the paper.

Did—you—find—any—clue?

Yes, dear—that is, no. Nothing to amount to anything. Upon my soul Jack, if I wrote the editorials of this paper I'd say something.

He subsided into inarticulate growls behind the paper, then I heard a snuffle distinctly.

Edith was crying—pouring cream into a coffee cup and feeling blindly for the sugar, with her pretty eyes obscured. In a second I was up, had crumpled the newspapers, including Fred's, into a ball, and had lifted him bodily out of his chair.

When I am married, I said fiercely, jerking him around to Edith and pushing him into a chair beside her, if I ever read the paper at breakfast when my wife is bursting for conversation, may I have some good and faithful friend who will bring me back to a sense of my duty. I drew a chair to Edith's other side. Now, let's talk, I said.

Fred had taken her hand and was patting it gently, while his eye sought the headlines on the wad of morning paper.

You burned that blue rug, she said to me disconsolately, with a threat of fresh tears. It took me ages to find the right shade of blue.

I will buy you that Shirvan you wanted, I hastened to assure her.

Yes, to take away when you get married. There is a hint of the shrew in all good women.

I will buy the Shirvan and not get married.

Here, I regret to say, Edith suddenly laughed.

You! she chortled, and pointed one slim finger at me mockingly. You are so mad about one girl that you love all women for her sake. You who go white instead of red when she comes into the room! You, who have let your practice go to the dogs to be near her and then never spoke to her when she's around, but sit with your mouth open like a puppy begging for candy.

Honestly Edith, do I do that? I gasped. She leaned over and kissed Fred.

Women like men to be awful fools about them, she said. That's why I'm so crazy about Freddie. He writhed. If I tell you something nice, Jack, will you make it a room size rug?

Room size it is.

Then, Margery's engagement ring was stolen last night, and when I commiserated her she said: Dear me, the lamp's out and the coffee is cold.

Remarkable speech under the circumstances, said Fred.

Edith rang the bell and seemed to be thinking. Perhaps we'd better make it four small rugs instead of one large one.

Not a rug until you have told me through the connecting door into Margery's room.

The atmosphere was reeking with chloroform. The girl was in bed, apparently sleeping quietly. One arm was thrown up over her head, and the other lay relaxed on the white cover. A folded towel had been laid across her face, and when I jerked it away I saw she was breathing very slowly and stenotically, with her eyes partly open and fixed.

I threw up all the windows before I roused the family downstairs and saw the silver was intact and the back kitchen door open. And then the doctor came, and I was put out in the hall.

Not until the doctor came out to me and said she was better and would I call a maid to make some strong black coffee did I come out of my stupor. The chance of doing something, anything, made me determined to make the coffee myself. They still speak of that coffee at Fred's.

It was Edith who brought Mrs. Butler to my mind. Fred had maintained that she had fled before the intruder, and probably was in some closet or corner of the upper floor. It was I who found her, after all, lying full length on the grass in the little square yard back of the house. She was in a dead faint and was a much more difficult patient than Margery.

We could get no story from either of them that night. It was a strange experience—the night intrusion without robbery as a motive. If Margery knew or suspected the reason for the outrage she refused to say. As for Mrs. Butler, to mention the occurrence put her into hysterics. It was Fred who put forth the most startling theory of the lot.

By George, he said the next morning when we had failed to find tracks in the yard and Edith had reported every silver spoon in its place, by George, it wouldn't surprise me if the lady in the grave clothes did it herself. There isn't anything a hysterical woman won't do to rouse your interest in her if it begins to flag. How did any one get in through that kitchen door when it was locked inside and outside. I tell you she opened it herself.

I did not like to force Margery's confidence, but I believed that the outrage was directly for the purpose of searching her room, perhaps for papers that had been her father's. Mrs. Butler came around enough by morning to tell a semi-connected story, in which she claimed that two men had come in from a verandah roof and tried to chloroform her.

The inability of Margery Fleming to tell who had chloroformed her, and Mrs. Butler's white face and brooding eyes made a very respectable mystery out of the affair. Only Fred, Edith and I came down to breakfast that morning.

Did you find anything, Fred? Edith asked. Fred did not reply, so she repeated the question with some emphasis.

El—what? Fred inquired, peering around the corner of the paper.

Did—you—find—any—clue?

Yes, dear—that is, no. Nothing to amount to anything. Upon my soul Jack, if I wrote the editorials of this paper I'd say something.

Not a rug until you have told me

what Margery said, firmly.

Oh, that! Why she said it really didn't matter about the ring. She had never cared much about it anyway.

But that's only a matter of taste, I protested, somewhat disappointed. But Edith got up and patted me on the top of the head.

Silly! she said. If the right man came along and gave her a rubber teething ring she'd be crazy about it for his sake.

Edith took me upstairs to measure for the Shirvan, Edith being a person who believes in obtaining a thing while the desire for it is in its first bloom. Across the hall Fred was talking to Margery through the transom. Mustard leaves are mighty helpful, Margery was saying. I always take them on shipboard. And cheer up. Land is in sight.

I would have given much for Fred's ease of manner when, a few minutes later, Edith, having decided on four Shirvans and a hall runner, she took me to the door of Margery's room. She was very still and pale.

I hope you are better, I said.

She said she was a little better. I who have a local reputation of a sort before a jury, I could not think of another word to say. I stood there for a minute uneasily, with Edith poking me with her finger to go inside the door and speak and act like an intelligent human being. But I only muttered something about a busy day before me and fled. It was singular, but as I stood in the doorway I had a vivid mental picture of Edith's description of me, sitting up puppy-like to beg for a kind word and wiggling with delight when I got it. If I slunk into my office that morning like a dog scoured to his kennel Edith was responsible.

A reverend canon of the Anglican church relates that on one occasion it fell to his lot to marry his footman to his cook. The footman would persist throughout the service in putting his finger to his forehead every time his master addressed him in accordance with custom. The reverend gentleman remonstrated in an undertone:

Don't touch your forehead, John, but say the words after me. Then aloud: Will thou take this woman to be thy wedded wife? etc.

John, bearing in mind the canon's hint, replied: After you, sir! and the assembled friends burst into laughter.

Probably the first time in the history of any province in the Dominion a movement has been started in Saskatchewan to form an association in different districts for the co-operative marketing of eggs, and the increasing of the egg output. It is the desire to place this industry on a profit producing basis without increasing the cost to the consumer, and in fact, if the scheme works well, a reduction may be expected. It is proposed to have nine branches of this association; the head quarters to be at Regina. An association has been organized at Lloydminster, and others will be organized at Redvers, Milestone, Tugasse, Forget, Graham Hill, Penzance, Elfron and Wilcox.

LAWYER IS HONORED

OTTAWA MAN IS SECRETARY OF INLAND REVENUE DEPT.

S. U. Vincent, Well Known at the Capital, Succeeds to Important Post and Will Combine Secretarship With Office of Assistant Deputy of the Department — Ran Against Murphy.

J. U. Vincent, K.C., has been appointed secretary of the Federal Department of Inland Revenue and Assistant Deputy of that Department. The new official is a member of the well-known law firm of Vincent & Seguin, of Ottawa, and has been an active figure in the local political arena for some years. He contested Russell against Hon. Charles Murphy in the last Federal election but was defeated.

Mr. Vincent is a man of energy and decided views on public questions and has been conspicuous for many years as a leader of a section of the French-Canadians. He has been ex-

S. U. VINCENT.
Extremely active in promoting what he believes to be the rights of his fellow countrymen in matters educational, and national, and also has been a conspicuous figure municipally and externally.

He is clear-headed and fearless in debate and an excellent public speaker and a lawyer of good ability.

He was born in Ottawa in 1872 and educated there, being a graduate of Ottawa University, with honors in philosophy. He subsequently studied law at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and was called to the Ontario Bar in 1897. He was created a King's counsellor in 1910. He has practiced his profession with success in the capital ever since graduation and rapidly came to the front, as a leader among the French-Canadians of the capital. He has been president of the Monument National, and of the Ste. Jean Baptiste Society, and of the L'Union Canadian of Ontario. He has been a vice-president of the Ottawa branch of the Over-Seas Club and chief ranger of Court 304, C. O. F., and he has also sat at the Aldermanic Board and been a license commissioner for Ottawa.

Lispings In Golden Numbers.

There have been so many big cases in the British law courts during the past few months that speculation has been rife as to the incomes made by fashionable K.C.'s. It is not unusual for a prominent lawyer to pocket $100,000 a year, and yet the majority of them are quite willing to make financial sacrifices in order to attain Cabinet rank.

Nowadays Mr. F. E. Smith appears to be engaged for every big case, and oft-times he keeps several cases going on the same day. His income must be of handsome proportions, and yet he is certain to take Cabinet office when the Tories return to power, though his income will only be something like a fourth of what it is now. It is questionable, however, with all his big fees whether "F. E." has talked to greater profit than his bosom friend, Mr. Winston Churchill. Just as he returned from the Boer War, and before he was known as a Parliamentarian, Mr. Churchill pocketed $264 as his share for an hour and a half's lecture at St. George's Hall, Liverpool. His present salary is a wretched dole compared with that rate of payment.

KING GEORGE AS FARMER.

His Majesty Had Thirty-Five Entries In Smithfield Show.

The crowned heads of Britain, for many years, have recognized the fact that agriculture is the basis of a country's prosperity.

For several years past many of the big prizes at the Smithfield Show, London, have been awarded to the farmer sovereign, whose exhibits are always a feature of the show.

Even as far back as 1890, King George III. was an exhibitor at the great show, but failed to secure a prize. Six years later, the Duke of York was successful. Queen Victoria won many trophies, being awarded the Champion Cup for the best beast in the show in 1883, 1889, 1890, 1895, and 1899, and it may be incidentally mentioned, that by her command no exhibit that has not been bred on one of the royal farms has been exhibited by the sovereign, since the year 1890.

King Edward won the championship of the cattle section in 1874, and the Cup for the best pen of sheep in 1885; while our present King won the championship for pigs in 1895, and the Prince Consort a gold medal for pigs in 1899.

Nor has the Smithfield Club lacked royal support from other points of view, as King Edward was their president in 1875, 1883, and again at the Centenary Show in 1898; while H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh occupied the position in 1887 and H.R.H. Prince Christian, who is a constant exhibitor, in 1893.

At the recent show, Windsor, Sandringham and Balmoral were all represented, the royal entries totalling thirty-five. King George inspected all his entries, and handled many of them.

Perhaps the King chiefly differed from more specialist exhibitors, in the particular interest he took in the men who tended his stock. As he stroked the forehead of his beautiful shorthorn he inquired of the herdsman how many years he had served at Windsor; and if ever a Scotsman rolled his "r's" it was that herdsman when he replied with obvious pride, "Nearly thirty years." But in those thirty years he had never seen Windsor so unrivaled.

Someone propounded the theory that the soil of Windsor, which used to produce the best English oak trees, must have similar properties in stock production. Out of twelve entries from Windsor three special-breed cups won in Devons, Herefords, and Shorthorns—of which the first two are sometimes supposed to need west-country air—and seven first prizes and two seconds. The Sandringham farm won a few firsts; principally in small classes for small cattle, kerries and crossbreds of this breed.

The King again and again laughed heartily throughout his extended tour of the show. He merrily urged his shepherds who were holding his pen of Southdowns, to use their best devices when it came to a contest w/ the pen of Hampshires which were known to be dangerous rivals, as the proved.

The immense seal of the guardian of some of the stocks to show the animals to the best advantage before the King produced an almost embarrassing situation in the Gilbey Hall, which was devoted to machinery and pigs.

As soon as the King, accompanied by Sir Bowen Bowen-Jones, this year's president, appeared in the hall almost all the prize pigs were roused from their recumbent ease by vigorous slaps with flat "bats" that are the technical weapon. White pigs and black pigs and red pigs at once started such a chorus of protest, upsetting their troughs and shaking the flour from their "feeces" that the spick-and-span Gilbey Hall might have been an Irish fair and so it continued.

Somebody Guessed Right.

The Cheddar cheese which I brought into the rooms at Simpson's Cheshire, London, each day at lunch time, had its height, girth and weight, correctly guessed by one of the diners the other day. The measurements were: Height 13 3/4 inches, girth 28 3/4 inches, and weight 24 1/2 pounds. This feat has only been accomplished nine times in twenty years. Old city men who have lunched regularly at the same restaurant for forty years make the three guesses each day. The cheese is brought in on a foot-high revolving pedestal, and placed in front of the chairman. Each guest is supplied with a slip of paper on which to record his guesses, and whenever any one succeeds the proprietor asks all the guests to drink the health of the winner in champagne.

The custom is believed to be nearly two hundred years old, and before the luncheon, for which sixty-five places are set at three tables, the chairman invariably says grace.

THE WARBLER FAMILY.

There Are Thirty-Three Kinds Found In Ontario.

The Sylvicolidae, or Warblers, are a very wide family connection—embracing in all thirty-three varieties of birds which honor Ontario with their prized presence, some, it is true, in such very limited numbers as to be comparative rarities, says C. M. C. in Toronto Star Weekly. There is a prevailing strain of brilliant coloring running through them; their beauty, indeed, is more a prominent feature, as usual, than any proficiency in a melodic sense.

In fact, a college professor, hard put for a joke, well might state the breed to be so-called, because they do not "warble." The blue yellow-backed warbler utter but a soft, drawn-out twitter; the mourning warbler nothing further than a low, pensive, simple "twit"—their only songs. The Blackburnian variety—the most beautiful of the whole family—breeds in Northern Ontario, so that, except on its passage north and south, we see too little of it; unless in too great a haste it is habit to stop off for a week or so each October's end.

Speaking generally, the warblers may be said to nest on low bushes, although a few, like the Pine-creeping and Golden-crowned thrush species, resort to ground-nesting to rear their brood. Their little cousins—sometimes known as the Canadian Fly-catchers (Myiobius Canadensis)—utilize both situations indifferently. The Yellow warbler—so commonly observed about civilized haunts and prized for their assiduity in ridding the fruit trees of small insects—have a peculiarity of not being able to forego building in a willow or a maple, if they can find one situated adjacent to an orchard. The Eastern Warbler family has the distinction—also value—of feeding alone upon insects.

After the Yellow Warbler—whose name sufficiently describes him—the commonest of the warblers are, perhaps, the Red-start, the Golden-Crowned Thrush, and the Water Thrush or Wagtail. The first is five and a quarter inches long; black, if one is asked to describe him; but the white breast and the ruddy orange tint of the sides of the breast and base of the quills and tail make him one of the prettiest birds of our woods. The last-named is olive-brown above, of a prevailing sulphur-yellow below, and is general to be found near a stream or pond, wading in the shallows, diligently "wagging" his tail with the relish his feed of aquatic insects imparts.

From his appearance the Water-thrush has been sometimes confused with the Golden-crowned Thrush, but the latter never nests or feeds near the swamps and moist ground. Above he is olive-green with a tinge of yellow; his crown has two streaks of black enclosing a broad orange stripe, beneath, his plumage is white, while his breast and sides are sooty black—also a truly beautiful summer resident, one can see. If she can, this pretty creature prefers a pine-wood for the scene of her nuptials. Suppose the five young to have sat y chipped themselves out from the creamy-white eggs that you knew were hatching, all—th not wishful to disturb. The ground-nesters have so many enemies that t seems a wonder their kind does not become extinct—till you remember how mother nature, with an eye to that very chance, gives for each of such birds the right hues of plumage to protect it, as well as by directing its instincts so that those dangers may be minimized.

What the golden-crowned thrush mostly hunts for is a nesting site on a knoll, irrespective of direction, where she can cunningly thatch her nest with the needles, so like the ground around. Which explains why she is far better known to most people as the "oven-bird"—Seiurus auricapillus.

"What Neck'st?"

W. F. Stevens, the robust Live Stock Commissioner for Alberta, is widely known for his geniality, a quality which seems to accompany stoutness of person. He was in Winnipeg one hot July day and had occasion to buy a new collar. Entering a gent's furnishing store on Portage Avenue he started the obliging young clerk by asking for a collar, size 22.

"Sorry, sir," the boy replied politely, "but we are just out of that size. There is a store, however, just around the corner that could probably supply you."

Imagine the feelings of the live stock authority when he rounded the corner and read the following sign:

"Northwest Harness Co., Ltd. Use Fit-Well Collars on your Horses."

Light Rifles For Cadets.

The Cadet Corps of Canada are to be supplied with 22-calibre rifles. The Ross Rifle Company is making the rifles of a pattern approved by the Militia Department. They will weigh about five pounds or less and are almost a miniature of the long Ross.

In the past, while the cadets used the long rifles for shooting over the ranges, and will do the same in the future, the rifles were found too heavy for drilling in the case of the smaller boys. The light rifles will be used for drill purposes and for indoor shooting.

MARVELLOUS LONDON.

There Is No Other City Like Her in the World.

Sir William Soulsby, who was private secretary to the Lord Mayor before most Londoners of to-day were born, and has been private secretary to every Lord Mayor since he has been doing a great service in trying to drive home to the Londoner that London is unique—wherefrom follows that a Londoner must rank above all other men in the world.

But Sir William stopped short, or the interviewers did not report him fully, London is not a city; London is not like anything else in the world—merely because it is the very heart of the world. To-day, to be a Londoner is equivalent to having been a Roman citizen of two thousand years ago.

The Personality of London—we ought to thank that doyen of private secretaries, that super-private secretary, for the phrase. London has a personality, she is a living thing, the most vast, most pathetic, thing which our civilization has produced.

Can anyone conceive the world with London eliminated. It would be a world in ruin, a world in sackcloth and ashes. Trade rivals may hate us, rail at us, raise tariff barriers against us; but London remains all-essential to their trade. A disaster to London would mean starvation to untold millions.

To-day how many Londoners realize the immensity of their privilege in belonging to the Imperial City? Here and there you find a man who knows one who has been behind the scenes and under the hollowness of the claims of other cities, other nations. In one short street alone, Mincing-lane, the greater part of the trade of the Far East is handled, and the Far East has always been, from a trade point of view, the prize of the world.

There are about half a dozen such places, places right on the main track, where your hand is on the world's pulse. Of these, I think, I would put Hong Kong first, the greatest of seaports, the finest jewel in the Imperial crown, the clearing-house of half the world. Stand on the steps of the postoffice of Hong Kong, and you will see all the nations of the earth pass before you; and, sooner or later you will see all the men and women you have met in other great ports pass you. Stand on the quay, where the police take your name before you enter a sampan, lest your boatmen cut your throat, and you will realize, if not at least, the immensity of the British Mercantile Marine; also you will realize, if you have a sense of proportion, the growing menace of German competition.

Really, Hong Kong is part of London, as is also Singapore, which runs close in wealth. Until you have seen these two ports, you cannot realize at all the roar of our nation's greatness. We are the richest people the world has ever known, we handle a volume of trade almost to put a few million people into Australia and South Africa, and have lent them more than a few million pounds, but such places as Hong Kong and Singapore, and because London business men and London bankers seized the opportunities presented to them.

Calcutta and Bombay are splendid magnificence; but they are not parts of London. India herself is great enough to claim, and to hold, them for her own. Other famous cities, such as Melbourne or Toronto, are merely Colonial, with Colonial interests. You cannot feel the pulse of the world in them.

What other city has a personality in the cosmopolitan sense of the word, what other city can take into herself all the peoples of the world, absorb them, make them part of her wondrous self?

Paris is—well, Paris. She is unique, delightful, the France. The Parisian has little or nothing in common with that wonderful personality which forms the backbone of the second nation of the world. Vienna, Berlin, Peterburg—these are merely local capitals. Rome is the ghost of a great tradition.

Landmark Is Modernized.

An ancient stone weir on the River Dee, constructed by Hugh Lupus Earl of Chester, between 1070 and 1101 is being utilized to supply the city of Chester with electricity. The weir was originally erected to drive corn mills, and the milling industry continued up to 1907. In 1910, however, Chester Corporation, who had purchased the property, dismantled the mills. Mr. S. E. Litton, the city electrical engineer, then devised a scheme for converting the water power into electrical energy, and it is believed that the annual saving thus effected will repay the capital expenditure in five years. It is estimated that the installation will yield 1,250,000 units per annum at a cost of less than 3d per unit, inclusive of capital charges.

Thumb Prints Deed Signature.

Two human thumb prints form unusual parts of a real estate deed recently filed in Fort Madison, Ia. The deed is for some former Indian lands in Oklahoma, and the thumb prints were taken in the place of signatures.

Above each thumb print is the name of the owner, written by the real estate agent who transacted the transfer of the property from the government to two Indians. This deed is unique in real estate records.

FOLLOWS SIMPLE LIFE

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH IS A LONELY OLD MAN.

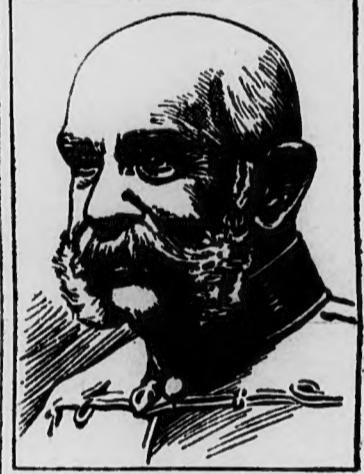

Head of the House of Hapsburg derives His Throne From a German Baron Who by an Act of Kindness Earned an Empire—Austria-Hungary Is Biggest Country in Europe Except Russia.

The Emperor of Austria-Hungary, who is often spoken of as the most lonely monarch in Europe, is a famous shot and is descended from a race of keen sportsmen. It was, in fact, on a hunting expedition that the first Hapsburg to come into prominence met with an adventure which helped him to the crown of what was then the Holy Roman Empire of German Nationality."

Rudolf von Hapsburg was a simple German baron who led a quiet life in his castle, Hapsburg, among the Alps, and did not concern himself with the troubles which rent the empire into warring factions. He was riding home one night after a day's hunting when he came to a swollen mountain torrent. The tinkling of a little bell on the further bank attracted his attention. He saw a priest and an accompanying acolyte carrying the vaticum of some dying sinner, and their way was barred by the stream.

Rudolf von Hapsburg set the priest upon his horse and not only helped him safely across, but escorted him cap in hand, meekly and on foot, to his destination. The recital of this graceful act to the German princes assembled for the election of an emperor is said to have induced them to vote in favor of Rudolf von Hapsburg. At any rate, Rudolf was crowned emperor and managed a very difficult empire with considerable skill.

The empire of Kaiser Franz Josef is greater in extent than any other European state, save Russia, and wherever you go in it you will find a "jagd-schloss," a shooting box, where the mighty lodge when following their favorite sport.

Whitewashed, with red-tiled roofs, and flanked by little round towers, these castles stand among clumps of trees in the fertile duchies of Austria, or rise up on a mountainside dark with fir trees. They look so peaceful, but heavy care intrude even here, and the spirit of the place is not in harmony with its outward semblance.

The guns had hardly ceased speaking in the Balkans when Emperor Francis Joseph sought rest and peace in his castle among the Alps near Innsbruck.

When the Archduchess Sophie, the emperor's mother, bought this chateau it was a very unpretentious place. It has gradually been added to. But it still retains its original simple character. Every room looks as if it were lived in. The imperial owner's living apartments are as simple as, or even simpler than, the other rooms. He sleeps on a small camp bedstead.

Francis Joseph's daily life is in perfect harmony with these plain surroundings. He rises between 4 and 5 every morning, and after a cup of coffee and roll, without even butter, goes straight to his desk and begins the work of the day. Although far away from the seat of government he cannot escape the affairs of state.

Usually the emperor works steadily until about eight o'clock, when he goes for a quiet stroll in the forest for an hour or so. Then he returns to his desk and has a sort of light preliminary lunch, a chop or cutlet, with one glass of beer. This is brought on a tray to his writing desk. With occasional interruptions work goes on until midday, when a family luncheon is served.

FROM WHEAT GROWING TO DIVERSIFIED FARMING

A Change is Generally Taking Place in Agriculture in Many Western Districts

Western towns and cities have the money and the brain, and the country and location, which should be an adequate combination to working out a successful plan for the encouragement of industries. They already realize that the factory must go hand in hand with agriculture for permanent development. Difficulties there always are in working out big problems, but these are never insurmountable where there is brain.

Dairy Produce and Stock

The line of agriculture that best fits into industrial life is mixed farming which supplies the necessary produce for the home market. Though wheat absorbs the attention of the farming community, the urban population takes much of dairying and stock raising and farmers are beginning to feel the influence in that direction. Farmers can make money more easily out of wheat, but the time is fastening when they will find it quite as profitable—in fact more profitable in the long run—to turn part of their vast area to mixed farming. It is not so easy now as it used to be to find a farmer who has neither a cow or a hen, but the name is still legion. Many farmers in Indian Head district buy the butter, the local supply being scarce and sufficient for the town. Wolseley is doing its best to increase the supply of dairy products in that district. On a farmer in that section works only 107 acres, but it is said he is making more money out of mixed farming than many of the farmers who are working half-sections. Grenfell, like numerous other towns, uses a huge quantity of condensed milk. One merchant estimates his sale last year at 12,000 quarts.

Established Creameries

A creamery recently established at Elkhorn has increased the price of cattle, thus mixed farming in that district has received an impetus. Vernon is just starting a creamery. Farmers in Broadview section are taking up the hog industry. Sintalut is encouraging mixed farming. Qu'Appelle has a creamery which found a ready market in the West. Eyebrow uses condensed milk, and the local butcher imports his cattle. Outlook imports its meat, butter, eggs and milk, as there is practically no supply locally. Weyburn exports little or no dairy produce. Though Mortlach shipped 1,500,000 bushels of wheat last year, there were no dairy products sent out. Ten miles north of Herbert a farmer planted 40 acres of potatoes last year and his returns were so great that he laughed at his neighbor who grew wheat. A farmer south of Herbert brought into town last year a turnip weighing 28 1/2 pounds. Mixed farming has gone far enough to supply the local demand the year round for eggs, milk, and butter. Instances might be multiplied to show the opportunity there is for mixed farming and also to show that in most districts it could be carried on profitably.

"BUY CANADIAN-MADE GOODS"

The above maxim is one that should seriously be considered by each and every Canadian citizen, for it is one of great moment and importance to the condition and welfare any country seeks to attain. The result of purchasing abroad goods and materials which can be supplied at home is strikingly displayed by government statistics, which form sufficient evidence to prove that Canada is not in the position it should command through its trade and commerce. To purchase beyond the country's means will in time cause results of a noticeable character and this is being done at present at a rate, unsatisfactory to Canadian industry. Money expended in this way must cause a reaction sooner or later, and the credit of the country must naturally be impaired as in the case of any individual who spends beyond his means. Expenditure must be concentrated and made in the country in which it is earned, before the effect of original earnings will accumulate. In purchasing goods abroad, Canadian raw material and labor must naturally become less desirable. Attached to such a condition of affairs are unsatisfactory labor conditions, poorer grades of material and other accumulated effects. It is clearly the duty of patriotic citizens of Canada to build up a country where money can be secured at any time it is desired but with expenditures being made outside, no security can be given and conditions must decline.—The Wainwright Star.

FOOLED THE OFFICIALS

Bought Artificial Foot Before Being Allowed to Land in Canada

A Wolverhampton man, who is now settled in Canada, had quite a unique adventure before being accepted as a suitable immigrant. The Canadian authorities do not admit people deficient in limbs, which would prevent the person from earning a living out. The man in question had the misfortune to lose a foot and was rejected as "unfit." He had no choice but to return to England, a little disheartened but not discouraged. If he could not land with one foot he could with two, and immediately ordered an artificial limb. Then he started off again to Canada, and this time passed the officials safely. He is now, so he has written to his friends in Wolverhampton, settled with his family and doing well.

He bequeathed $6,000 to the Preston Industrial Institution for the Blind and Homes for Blind Children for North and East Lancashire.

A Bird With Hands
In the forests of British Guiana, says the London Globe, lives the hoactzin, a singular bird, whose young possess a free claw at the end of each wing, which they use almost as the monkey uses his hands in tree climbing.
The nest of the hoactzin is in a tree, overhanging the water and the young, unlike most birds are active from the first. The outermost quill feathers of the wing, which might hamper the free use of the claws, do not grow much until the rest of the wing is strong enough to make climbing less necessary. Then they grow out, and the claws are absorbed. The adult bird does not need them. Should a young hoactzin fall into the water it makes for the shore and seizes a branch, up which it quickly climbs.

FIND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mrs. John Cabot, After Six Years' Suffering, Tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and Found New Life and Energy. White Head, Que. (Special). One more woman has risen to tell her suffering sisters they can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills. That woman is Mrs. John Cabot, well known and highly respected here, and she expresses her enthusiasm in these words: "I certainly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. There's nothing better."

Asked to give her experience, Mrs. Cabot continued: "My trouble started in a cold, and I suffered for six years. Rheumatism, neuralgia, stiffness of the joints, cramps in the muscles and heart fluttering were among my symptoms, and finally Bright's Disease developed. It was then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they helped me almost from the start. After taking four boxes I feel like a new woman."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Healthy kidneys strain all the impurities and poisons—all the seeds of disease—out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure the disease but by ensuring good blood give new life and energy to every part of the body.

Promoting the Janitor

They were joint owners of an apartment house, and one day the junior partner sought his colleagues in some trepidation.

The janitor wants ten dollars more per month, or he'll leave. I hate to give up the money, but we can't spare him.

The senior partner disappeared and returned in a few moments.

It's all right, he said. I have satisfied him, and it didn't cost us anything.

How's that?

The janitor is now the superintendent.

Good work! declared the junior partner. But why didn't you make him superintendent in the first place?

Because, answered the senior member, I knew he'd want a promotion eventually. Every man wants a promotion some time, and to my mind, a good man deserves one.

Scoffers at police women will do well to consider one of Chicago's, who subdued a street car rowdy and took him to the station house single handed.

You can't avoid duty by taking a by-path.

Dates Changed--Didsbury Fair, August 27 and 28, '14

TAKE NOTICE

All colors which have so far been given out in our piano contest must be recorded by the 1st April, 1914, as we will positively not accept them after that date.

We will issue one more color and that will be the only one we will allow for the balance of the contest.

QUESTION

It has been asked us several times, "How can you afford to give away that beautiful $400.00 Upton Parlor Grand Piano as you advertise you will do?"

Our Answer

We prefer to sell 100 articles at a profit of ten cents each, rather than 10 articles at a profit of one dollar each. It means just ninety more people patronizing our store. The only reason for our being in business is to do business. This means that we must bring the people to our store. Low prices and good values will bring us customers always. Our giving away this piano is simply to bring additional business to our store and it is doing it, every day. It pays you and us.

Meeting at Westerdale

The Westerdale Literary Society held a meeting recently to consider the advisability of establishing weekly half holiday and recreation grounds with the necessary equipment for games, etc.

The plan was outlined by Mr. C. Fessenden and the different phases of the question were enlarged upon by Messrs. J. F. Bailey, K. L. Sandford, C. D. Carver, A. Hendry and E. Drake.

Mr. J. Bolton presented a resolution stating that the good work of the Society was recognized and that a plan of amusement and a set time for such be provided for the residents of the district, and that they record themselves as in favor of providing and maintaining grounds and equipment necessary for the success of such plans, and that a committee be appointed to look over locations suitable for the purpose and as near the Westerdale church as possible and to get all information on same; the committee to call a meeting of the people and to report to them as soon as possible, and that at such meeting all necessary steps be taken to secure said grounds, elect officers, appoint committees, and transact any other business that may be necessary.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

On motion Messrs. Fessenden, Bolton and Hendry were elected a committee to take up the matter and then call a mass meeting of the people of Westerdale district to take further action on the matter.

Rugby News

A little field work has been started in this locality, such as discing and harrowing; other work will soon be in progress.

Skating having come to an end the young folks are looking for other amusements to take its place.

few days in Calgary visiting friends.

There will be a short programme, box social and dance at the Rugby schoolhouse on April 3rd for the benefit of the Westcott and Cremona band; everybody welcome.

A few of the young people attended the dance at Big Prairie on March 20th and claimed having a good time.

The Ladies' Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. G. Adams on Thursday, April 2nd. Subject—"Spring cleaning and gardening."

Mr. Lincoln Shantz, of Didsbury, has been making a few trips up in Mr. Blain's direction lately. There must be something very attractive up in that direction to call for such a long drive. Ask Lincoln what's the matter with the Didsbury girls.

Mrs. Hall, of Edmonton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Vipond, is visiting her parents and friends in the district.

Miss Vera Moon is staying with her sister, Mrs. H. Pearson, east of town.

This Stomach Remedy Remarkably Successful

You know us—your home druggist. You know we wouldn't guarantee any remedy to relieve indigestion or dyspepsia, or money back, unless we felt the utmost confidence in that remedy. Therefore, when we offer you Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets with this proof of our faith in them, it leaves you no room for hesitation or doubt.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the fact that they contain, among other things, Bismuth and Peppermint, two ingredients endorsed by the medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of stomach ills. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check heartburn and distress, stimulate the secretion of gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich, red blood. In a short time they tend to restore the stomach to a naturally comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They also benefit the bowels.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00. H. W. Chambers, Didsbury.
